We've got you covered ...

When general contractors and interior designers across the U.S. need a bondable painting contractor in the Northeast, they call Baystate. Why? Because they know we deliver superior workmanship and always include a final coat after all trades as part of our standard service. Whether we're doing a hotel renovation or new construction, we've got you covered.

... from first brush to final coat.

That's right. No more haggling with trade subs about who's responsible for making sure the project is finished to perfection. At Baystate, we take responsibility for ensuring your property is picture-perfect by making final coat applications after all other subcontractors have completed their work. And we make it part of our standard service, so you don't have to negotiate the details. It's just another way Baystate's commercial painting services are a cut above the rest.

Custom wallcoverings? No problem.

After 20 years in the business, we've worked with just about every painting and wallcovering material available — and we stay up-to-date and fully trained on new products and finishes as they come on the market, including green materials.

Safety first — on every worksite

The safety of your employees, customers, and guests is a top priority at Baystate Services. We have a full-time Safety Officer to ensure OSHA compliance at every worksite and can use LEED-certified cleaning stations.

Quality service the Baystate way
